Speech, Literature Courses Altered

New course procedures in both the speech and English departments and two new music faculty members constituted changes in the language, literature and fine arts division.

Goshen College's speech department functioned full force this year after Dr. Roy Umble's return. Umble, who spent the past two years teaching in Athens, Greece, under the Fulbright program, revamped the Basic Speech course. It included one mass lecture each week and informal groups for listening to student speeches. Since Ad 31 and 36 were vacated by the commerce department, 31 became the speech classroom and 36 became Umble's office.

Again this year the General Literature program used money received from the Eli Lilly Company. Dr. S. A. Yoder lectured twice each week. Senior teaching fellows Rachel Leatherman, Ervin Beck Jr., and Arnold Roth led the discussions. The previous year's program featured faculty discussion leaders.

New faculty members—Mr. and Mrs. James Miller —taught in the music department.

Seminar Includes Practical Work

Continued expansion marked the social science division this year. Both the social work and business administration programs included new courses. The commerce department moved into new headquarters.

Social work courses offered included a new course, Group Processes in Leadership. For the first time students worked in the community at children's homes, schools and hospitals in social work capacities. Using their experiences as source materials, students wrote research papers at the end of the semester. This was the first year that any student could graduate with a degree in preprofessional social work. Nine students completed degrees.

A new business administration course, Managerial Policy, met on Saturday morning during second semester. Part-time instructor, Mr. James Snyder, taught the course.

Former Adelphian Hall and the old Y room were both vacated this year to make room for the commerce department. Adelphian Hall became the new classroom for typing and office machines classes. Commerce faculty offices moved here also. Miss Caroline Moser taught in the commerce department for the first time this year.

Prof Smith illustrating a historic event.

Psych students listening to Prof Miller relate an anecdote.

Chemistry Courses Added;

For the first time in Goshen College's history three full-time faculty members were employed to teach chemistry. Because of this the department was able to add new courses.

The department added a new four-hour General Chemistry course for chemistry majors. They also expanded the former three-hour Physical Chemistry to eight hours.

In addition, the department completed negotiations with Purdue University at Lafayette, Indiana, concerning our pre-engineering program. Students can now take three years of work in the Goshen College pre-engineering program. Upon the completion of a fifth year at Purdue, students can receive a Goshen degree. A Purdue degree can be earned after attendance there for two years.

Dr. S. W. Witmer has been a member of the faculty since 1915—forty-four years. Next year he will be teaching in a part-time capacity in the natural sciences division.

Bible Requirements Doubled

This year the faculty of Bible and philosophy division reviewed the division's curriculum and program. In addition, they adopted new and increased requirements for college graduation. They doubled the former six required semester hours and distributed the twelve hours over the four college years. Students will take one three-hour course each year. Since the Associate in Arts degree was discontinued this year, the seminary faculty decided to admit college seniors to first-year seminary courses and thereby enrich the available Bible offerings.

At mid year all the Bible faculty moved to new offices in the new seminary building. Philosophy, Fundamentals of the Christian Faith, and Ethics and Christian Discipleship now meet in the seminary classrooms.

A special grant of $4,000 by the Eli Lilly Company made possible the establishment of a good modern book collection in the Bible field. This collection provided a much needed replenishment after the withdrawal of the seminary theological holdings to the new library.

Curriculum Integration Planned

Studying in curriculum library

The faculty of teacher education division spent much time this year revising the curriculum. Dr. Mary Royer served as chairman of the revision committee made up of all the instructors concerned primarily with professional education. The main concern of this committee was an attempt to make a semester of only professional courses for future teachers while practice teaching.

This year, for the first time, a meeting was held with all the supervising teachers in the public schools. They and the faculty discussed the role of the supervising teacher in the teacher education program.

Plans are under way for laboratory classes to be held on campus. A kindergarten class is planned for the first year. Each year a new grade will be added. Miss Vera Good, a new member of the education faculty, will be in charge of these classes.

Mr. Perry J. Miller acted as director of teacher education during this year while Dr. Karl Massanari was on leave.

Sabina Roupp reading a music education journal.

Nurses Receive Degrees in June

For the first time in the history of the Goshen College School of Nursing, nurses graduated with their fellow seniors in June. The last class to graduate in August was the class of 1958. The nursing faculty was able to delete the final summer only after careful curriculum study. The faculty is continuing to study ways in which the program can be made more compact.

June made history in another way. Virgil Strahm was the first male nurse to be graduated from the school. Three other men were also enrolled in the nursing curriculum.

Both Miss Olive Rich and Miss Anna Mae Charles returned to their teaching duties after attending graduate school. Another instructor, Miss Mabel Brunk, left the second semester for a three-year term with MCC in Korea.

Again this year students traveled to Elkhart for daily work. Juniors and seniors on affiliation worked with children in Chicago, with psychiatric patients at Westville and tuberculosis patients at Indianapolis.

Seminary Occupies New Building

Three major events made this year outstanding for the Biblical seminary. Foremost was the erection of the new seminary building on the south side of the campus. Faculty and students occupied the classroom-office section at the beginning of second semester. The small chapel and serviceable library wing with quarters for the Mennonite Historical Library and the Archives of the Mennonite Church were completed later.

The second major event was the final establishment of the Associated Mennonite Biblical Seminaries. The Goshen Seminary closely co-operates with the Elkhart Seminary. A new unified library system makes the resources of three collections available to both schools.

Thirdly, the Goshen Seminary received full accreditation from the American Association of Theological Schools in December 1958.

Enrollment increased to forty-one full-time and fifteen part-time students, almost all on the graduate level. One full-time instructor joined the faculty. And growing support came from the constituency.

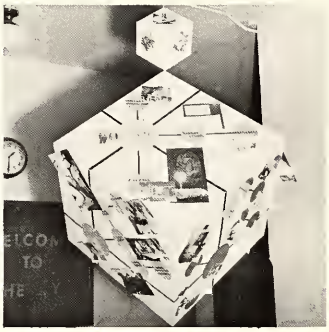
"Y" cabinet members (see page 163).



"Y" Issues Newspaper

"Y" publicity is posters, photography, radio news scripts, Record news releases, letters to pastors and inter-Mennonite college communications. It is the selection and publication of outstanding chapel talks. It is monthly calendars and annual handbooks—"That Spot in Indiana" for all new students. And this year under the direction of Harold Blosser and Mary Jean Yoder, publicity is a weekly newspaper which co-ordinates grass-roots reports from each commission.

Service commission co-chairmen, Larry Yoder and Doris Zook, have six committees working under their direction. Through the work of this commission, students are sent out to work with handicapped children at the rehabilitation center in Elkhart and with boys at the Bashor Children's Home, with the Elkhart County YFC and Goshen Boys' Club and with workers in Chicago missions. A work drive committee helped provide jobs for all students during the two days when classes were dismissed in an effort to raise funds for a foundation for the new men's dormitory.

Commission Fosters Forums; Small Groups Active

Sunday-school classes, dorm prayer meetings, Thursday chapel services and Sunday morning Christian Workers' Band programs are planned by committees under the Faith commission. Also working with this commission is the new student forum committee, which plans Sunday evening programs designed to encourage student discussion and thinking in problem areas. Faith co-commissioners, Lora Esch and Lewis Brubacher, worked with the Religious Life Committee in planning the fall revival meetings given by Myron Augsburger, the Holy Life Week chapel series and the World Day of Prayer services with Howard Charles.

As usual, the All-school Mixer started off Fellowship commission activities last fall. Throughout the year, John Nyce and Dorothy Yoder, commission co-chairmen, continued to help plan campus social activities. They made plans to help carry out a home-coming theme centered around the poetry of Robert Frost. Fellowship committees were also responsible for Christmas caroling, the midwinter social, small group socials, dinner night arrangements, Brunk cabin week-end outings and the All-school Outing.

Joyce Metzler and Don Blosser lead the work of the Missions commission. In Saturday evening supper meetings and Wednesday afternoon fellowship gatherings, students became increasingly aware of needs in foreign and home missions. On the last Friday of each month, chapel periods were set aside for addresses concerning missions and special mission offerings were given. Utilizing the services of returned missionaries on the campus, the commission planned a missionary conference last fall on—"The Living Church in Action."

The Evangelism commission, led by Marguerite Schultz and Jon Clemens, sponsored activities with an outreach to Goshen and the surrounding communities. Again this year students taught Sunday-school classes in three small South Bend churches. The South Bend interest grew sufficiently to obtain support from the Mission Board in securing a building for activities. Students also went on visitation to local convalescent homes and hospitals and held services at Hope Rescue Mission and the Goshen jail.

S.F.C. Accepts Government Loan Plan

Six students elected by student activities presidents and two faculty members appointed by the administration compose the Student Activities Commission. This commission is the administrative body set up by the Student Activities Conference which is held each fall. The conference delegates discuss problems related to extracurricular activities and to student activity policies.

The Commission carries on this function for the year. Their business agenda consisted of: consideration of bulletin board usage and placement and recommendations for future bulletin board policy.

Student Activities Commission: Jan Martin, John Ingold, Lonis Brubacher, Miss Herr, Jon Clemens, Verda Hostetler, Rebecca Miller, Dr. Beechy.

Members of the Student-Faculty Council discussed the proposed honors program, the student-loan provision of the National Education Defense Act and tuition increase to improve the quality of the dining hall food.

The Council consists of fourteen students, chosen by either their classes or the student body as a whole, and eight faculty members including the president and deans.

Organized to perpetuate better student-faculty relations and to provide opportunity for creative discussion the Council recommends solutions to campus problems presented by administration and student groups.

Women Propose Late-Leave System

WHGA: M. Miller, E. Hostetler, R. Detweiler, M. Saltzman, A. Selzer, L. Miller, L. Weaver, V. Good, D. Mathis, V. Stoltzfus, M. Swartzentruber.

Sunday afternoon coffee hour, Heart Sister's Week, and Open House programs result from the combined efforts of three dorm chairmen, officers, head residents, and the Dean of Women—the executive body of Women's House Government Association.

WHGA broadens its outreach by sponsoring Sister's All and with a special stamp collection project for a church in Japan.

The Association lengthened hours to 11:30 p.m. on L-M nights and proposed a tentative late leave system for second semester.

As a result of the recommendations made last year by a special study committee, a new Men's Interdorm Council began functioning. Patterned somewhat after WHGA, the council wrote a constitution which would unite the present men's dorms, but which would still be functional when men's housing becomes more centralized.

The council also sponsored several social events—including Brothers We and Men's Open House—studied campus parking regulations and advised the administration on building plans for the new men's dormitory.

Men's Dorm Council: A. Miller, W. Shellenberger, A. Beechy, M. Wenger, L. Shank, H. Kauffman, M. Litwiller, E. Beck, S. Brunk, C. Gotwals.

Councils Plan Party

Men students who receive an athletic letter become eligible for membership in the G-Council. Harold Yoder sponsors this organization of letter winners.

This year members revised flag football rules by a number of additions and clarifications in addition to supervising intramural awards and making decisions involving the intramural athletic program.

Co-ordinating with their counterpart, WAA, the council presented a Halloween party with an American Indian theme.

Twenty-four women won letters for accumulating high-point totals by participating in intramural athletics and in track day. These letter winners function as the Women's Athletic Association with Ruth Gunden, sponsor.

Their year included various activities—going to an ice show at Fort Wayne, participating in sports day competition in bowling, badminton, and basketball at Manchester and Ball State Colleges, and Miss Gunden's informal outings.

G-Council. Seated: R. Frey, J. A. Miller, S. Wenger, J. Ingold, M. Litwiller, R. Rosenberger, J. Mast, L. Williams, J. Nyce, M. Bontrager. Standing: K. Hostetler, L. Miller, C. Graber, S. King, D. Miller, H. Yoder.

Language Clubs Hold Poetry Reading Contests

Ada Schmucker, winner of the Spanish poetry reading contest.

Members of the German Club participated in varied activities initiated with a combination bicycle hike and picnic. During Monday night meetings, the group decorated cookies, pulled taffy, listened to a folk song recital by Sabina Roupp and spent an informal evening at LaMarr Kopp's singing German folk songs and looking at slides shown by returned Pax fellows of Europe.

Other club activities included attendance at a local Amish worship service and holding a German poetry reading contest—winners, Loretta Yoder and Janet Umble.

"El Club Español" studied Spanish culture —music, literature and painting. Mrs. Clay Cundiff, of Goshen, presented a travelogue of Spain. Then the club planned a Spanish supper and a Spanish poetry reading contest. Winners of the contest were Ada Schmucker and Lora Esch.

Members had an opportunity to work and fellowship with the Spanish people in worship services on a week-end VS unit at the Latin-American Mennonite Church in Chicago. Another group went to the Latin-American Mennonite Church in Archbold.

Internat'l Students Witness Unity; Writers Organize

Foreign students, American students and faculty experience free interchange of ideas within the structure of the International Relations Club. Discussions center around experiences of foreign students in the U.S. and topics of interest for the church and world.

Meetings include informal evenings in faculty homes, educational addresses and discussions. Singing at Brunk's Cabin or discussing the survival of the African Church, the club members continually witness the unity of nations and culture under the lordship of Christ.

Abe Sabbah giving a talk on the African Church to International Relations Club at E. E. Miller's: E. Penner, A. Sabbah, E. Nader, Dr. Miller, V. Yoder, J. Yamamoto, W. Jackson, L. Cremer.

Organized this year through the combined efforts of the English Department and interested students, the Creative Writing Club provides opportunity for creative comradeship.

Prospective members submitted manuscripts to be judged by the English Department faculty. Any student who wishes to submit an unsigned manuscript of creative nature, may apply for membership during the year.

Each month's meetings consist of reading and criticizing club members' new manuscripts which are previously submitted and stenciled.

Teacher Clubs Unite; Social Workers Host Conference

Christopher Dock Club members picking up materials for Christmas cards and receiving instructions from president, John Ingold: A. Birky, E. King, B. Hostetler, S. Wenger, J. Sundheimer, D. Byler, J. Ingold, C. Fleming.

This year the previous two divisions of the Christopher Dock Club, Elementary and Secondary, combined into one organization. Representatives attended the annual Indiana Student Education Association convention in October held in the new ISTA Center in Indianapolis on October 24.

Various programs included two films, "Explosion of a Myth" and "Freedom to Learn" designed to assist the future teacher. Discussions by student teachers and professional teachers, a critic teachers' tea and a special Christmas project completed the year.

Officially organized this year, the Social Workers' Club planned an active program including: an informal panel and party with a socio-drama for interested freshmen, a luncheon meeting at Home-coming with alumni who are social workers, and the adoption of a constitution and membership fee. Students, Marian Smith and Abner Hershberger, spoke about experiences at Governor Bacon and the Menninger Clinic for Psychiatric Research.

The club hosted a meeting of the Mennonite Social Workers' Association on our campus.

S.N.A. Active in State; Home Ec. Club Views Orient

Student Nurse Association consists of sixty nursing and prenursing students. Local chapter programs were humorous introductions of faculty personalities with the help of Winnie the Pooh and his friends, students reminiscing in "The Diary of a Student," Christmas caroling for the youngsters of the East Goshen area. Medical slides from Viet-Nam, a talk on geriatric nursing and a film, "Steps to Age" from the Mental Health Association presented professional help. Students attended fall and spring state conventions in Indianapolis and Fort Wayne.

This year the Home Economics Club had an international theme. Students, professors and guest speakers developed this theme. One of the members, Doris Brunk, was chairman of the International scholarship fund for the state of Indiana.

Jean Schertz showed slides from her past summer's work-camp experience. Other slides of Europe shown by Dr. Wyse pictured traditional and unusual European architecture. At a dinner meeting, Mrs. Roy Umble told about the culture and customs of Greece. Mrs. Willard Grabill showed slides of Viet-Nam.

In the past two years, the GC Aero Club moved forward with the purchase of its own airplane, a Piper J-3. Presently the club boasts six pilots and thirteen student pilots.

Winter reduces flying activities. But spring and fall invite enthusiasm and flying. Regularly, the club meets for business, films, speakers, breakfast flights and "hanger flying."

Since the club is incorporated, it has its own board of directors which acts as the safety committee to assure and enforce maximum safety precautions in the club.

This year's Photography Club began its activities with a study of Dr. Witmer's slides and his unique way of photographing birds, flowers, fruits and microscopic plants.

Alvin Hostetler presented another interesting aspect of photography—that of applied copy and close-up photography. Using their own cameras, club members experimented by copying various objects and articles.

In the spring the club displayed the results of student and faculty work in a photography exhibit in the Union Lounge.

Scientists Have Open House; Audubons Broadcast

Certain students interested in making new compounds devised a large retort etched with these words: The Science Club of Goshen College. Throughout the year its contents bubble and splatter with a solution of about 30 ml. of special preparation, with a concentration of one student per ml.

Catalysts such as a lecture on the timing of nuclear disintegrations or a story of mineralogy cause the retort to boil with the sparkle and luminescence of certain crystals making the compound one which stimulates students in the exploding field of science.

Breakfast at the college cabin and the traditional early morning bird hike began this year's program of the Audubon Society.

Regular club meetings featured films on wildlife and birds of the South, West, National Parks and Mexico. Other meetings included practical experience—building bird feeders and decorating Christmas trees for birds—and a spring hike to a heron colony.

A radio production included ways of studying birds, identification of winter birds and recognition of bird calls.

Peace Delegates Attend N.Y. Conference

Peace Society delegates reviewing conference at U.N.—J. Smith, W. Martin, H. Blosser, L. Esch, A. Bowman, V. Stoltzfus, J. Metzler, J. Nussbaum, E. Sears.

Promotion of scholarship, research and interest in the Christian teaching of peace constitutes the purpose of the Peace Society. In fulfilling this purpose, the Peace Society maintains a special collection of literature dealing with the history, philosophy and practical objectives of peace movements of every kind. To stimulate student activity in peace work, the society presents programs, peace oratorical speech contests, study conferences, service projects and peace teams.

Lectures by John H. Yoder and Guy Hershberger, discussions and panels comprised the society's monthly meetings. A panel of peace members attended the Intercollegiate Mennonite Peace Fellowship at the United Nations.

Sunday afternoons mark the monthly meetings of twenty students in the Pre-seminary Fellowship. This fellowship helps students maintain their goals of seminary training and decide more specifically about this field. It is open to all who are seriously considering seminary training. Speakers, Harold Bauman and John Mosemann, led discussions on "The Spiritual Resources a Minister Needs" and "Maintaining the Call Through College."

Dr. Gingerich Speaks on Japan

The Mennonite Historical Society, now in its thirty-fifth year, continued its basic three-point program during the year: (1) provision for three public programs with major addresses on "Mennonitism in Japan," by Dr. Melvin Gingerich, "The Anabaptist Attitude Toward the State," by Dr. Hans Hillerbrand, and "Mennonites in Colonial America," by Dr. J. C. Wenger; (2) publication of the Mennonite Quarterly Review and support of the publication of doctoral dissertations, this year by Dr. Hans Hillerbrand and Dr. John Howard Yoder; (3) support of the Mennonite Historical Library by purchase of books, microfilms, etc.

The Mennonite Historical Library, now a part of the Biblical Seminary Library, hopes to occupy much more adequate quarters in the new seminary building next year. Now the library is open to all students for outside reading requirements, casual reading or a retreat for those who find the constant stir of the main reading room more distracting than typewriters and voices. This year the library added 400 volumes, bringing total holdings to more than 14,500 including 250 regular periodicals as well as research and museum materials.

Choruses Tour East, West

A Cappella Chorus presented a premiere performance of Worthy Is the Lamb, a cantata written by Harold Moyer. Other works performed this year were: Bach's Sing Ye, an Easter hallelujah chorus for double chorus, and The Prayer of St. Francis. This year's spring tour included a TV performance in Kitchener, Ont.

A Cappella combined with Collegiate to sing Grieg's Four Psalms at Thanksgiving, Handel's The Messiah at Christmas and Bach's "Requiem" at Commencement.

Christmas and spring concerts of the College Orchestra included: Prelude and Fugue in D Minor by Handel, Suite for Orchestra by Purcell, Movements 2 and 3 of Symphony No. 88 by Haydn, Overture in B♭ by J. C. Bach, and Hungarian Dance by Brahms. Soloists with the orchestra were Marion Schrock playing Weber's Clarinet Concertino and James Miller singing two Handel arias.

Fifteen nursing students assembled for practice as the Nurses' Chorus under the direction of Loretta Yoder. The group rehearsed twice a week, presented a community program and traveled to Ohio for a week end of religious programs. Second semester the group concentrated on sight singing.

The Madrigal Singers perform sixteenth-century secular music forms. The most prominent of these forms, the madrigal, originated in Italy and spread throughout the continent into England. In England, madrigals developed a distinctive style including word painting, nonsense syllables and the poetry of the century. They were usually sung by amateurs for after-dinner entertainment.

The College group presented both secular and religious works for performances for civic organizations and for campus activities.

Madrigal Singers: Victor Fast, Mary K. Gerber, John Fisher, Buetta Wyse, Harold Blosser, Lora Esch, Sally Jo Roeschley, Jim Stemen.

Team Argues Nuclear Ban

The return of Prof Umble revived interest in campus forensics and the debate squads. This year's intercollegiate topic was: "Resolved that the testing of nuclear weapons be prohibited by international agreement."

Speech participants, Janice Luckenbill—"Through an Open Door" and Stan Yoder—"According to Isaiah," represented Goshen College in the Indiana Oratorical contest at Indiana State Teacher's College at Terre Haute.

RECORD Joins New Press Association

Editors of the Record attended a conference on the Indiana University campus this year. The conference initiated the formation of a new press association for Indiana colleges called "The Indiana Associated Collegiate Press." The day's activities included a lecture by John Stempel, chairman of the School of Journalism, four discussion groups on problems of campus publication and election of officers for the new organization.

The Record kept the small format, regularly publishing a six-page issue. The Farmers Exchange in New Paris again printed the biweekly paper. A new feature column, "Crumbs from Cooke," appeared in second semester issues. And always the usual headache of Tuesday night deadlines and the late Friday delivery. . . .

Newsy reporters were: M. Shore, S. Reedy, M. Cooke, G. Zook, D. Gerber, L. Weaver, J. Umble, L. Manglitz, M. Beyler, J. Landes, A. Weldy, J. Eby, L. Richer, J. Fisher, C. Horswell, J. Callendar, B. Peifer, E. Yoder, R. Hess, B. Wyse, J. Hartzler.

MAPLE LEAF Features People

A theme, thought, work and then a book—the 1959 Maple Leaf telling the story of a year at Goshen College and the people that motivated its events and recording factual information about that year. . . .

This year the Maple Leaf staff used much more professional photography than in previous years. Mr. Schiedt from Indianapolis took most of the pictures used in the opening and academic sections. Mr. Kull from Wauseon, Ohio took all the underclass, senior and faculty pictures and a few pictures used in other sections of the book.

The Maple Leaf contains 117 ads totaling over $2000 with a continued emphasis on picture layouts which include college students. Anne Detweiler was layout editor for the ad section. Ad salesmen were Clayt Gotwals, Herb Moyer, and Bob Weaver. Abner Hershberger was staff artist.

G.C. Initiates Extramural Soccer

With the expanding extramural program on campus, G.C.'s primary policy is to retain its very extensive intramural program but add extra competition in play with other schools. Soccer and track and field events entered the list of extramural sports this year.

Fall athletics were highlighted by the fine play of the initial Goshen College soccer team. The team played its first game with Calvin College at Ann Arbor, Michigan. G.C. performed well but lost, 3-2. Many students braved a chilling rain as Calvin once again downed the Leafs on their home field. In this game, Calvin scored twice in the last five minutes to drop the Leafs 2-1. Dr. Smucker coached the team.

The Leaf tennis squad continued to dominate their rivals, as they swept by seven neighboring Indiana colleges in their fall schedule. G.C. squeaked by its most worthy opponent, Manchester, twice, 4-3. Stan King remained undefeated in college singles play.

Heavy extramural baseball action included games scheduled with Indiana colleges and Hesston.

Maple Leafs Win Five

An unpredictable varsity basketball team started its season with wins over Grace and Taylor, then seemed to become listless as the season progressed. Finding the best first five combination was a problem throughout most of the season. A second win over Grace and victories over Robert Wesleyan and Tabor rounded out the G.C. victories totaling 6 out of 14.

Cheerleaders—Anne Detweiler, Lois Swedberg, Margaret Miller, Ruth Stieglitz, and Marian Smith—leading enthusiastic students.

Soph Men Dominate Intramurals

Unlike most colleges, G.C. stresses extensive participation in the intramural program over the limited activity of the extramural program. Over half the student body participates in this program each year.

Keen competition prevailed in both men's and women's intramural sports. The soph men shared first place with the juniors and seniors in softball and became champs in basketball and volleyball. Seniors won the football competition. In the women's department, the juniors emerged as champs in softball and the seniors in basketball. The soph girls finished undefeated in volleyball.

Bowling Offered in P.E.

Good participation and enthusiastic competition were evident in all minor games and sports. Opportunities in many activities are offered to students taking physical education classes. Bowling classes were added to the list of choices offered to the second-year physical education classes.

The usual tournaments in many of the individual games fostered competitive action. A track meet for both men and women was held in May with classes representing team competition. A tumbling exhibition coached by Dr. Gingerich featured performance on the trampoline and other tumbling feats.

Team Competition High

Athletic contests highlighted literary activity during the current vear. The Auroras recaptured the softball title from the Adelphians, 6-2. John Ingold sparked the Aurora attack in winning the annual football game, 30-8.

The Adelphian team managed to squeeze by the near-varsity Aurora squad in two consecutive games, 58-57 and 66-64. The girls' literary basketball went three games with the Avons winning, 2-1.

At home-coming, varsity versus alumni basketball games proved that graduates don't lose their athletic prowess. Alumni men beat the varsity, 69-66, while the varsity women won, 54-40.

L-M's Include Symphonies, Songs and Lectures

The fifty-third annual Goshen College Lecture-Music Series received much applause throughout the season. The Vienna Academy Chorus composed of twenty-four voices started the series. In February, the Roger Wagner Choral performed with exceptional feeling and musicianship.

Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, who served as secretary and confidante for her father, spoke on "Leo Tolstoy, My Father" on October 30. Home-coming included an illustrated lecture, "Autumn Across America" by Stan Midgley. Another illustrated lecture came in April with Cleveland Grant, "Timberline and Tundra."

The famous German soprano, Elizabeth Schwarzkopf, sang arias and art songs with true artistry. Two symphony orchestras appeared on this series—the Detroit Symphony conducted by Paul Paray with guest violinist, Mischa Mischakoff, as soloist in Beethoven's Violin Concerto and the Indianapolis Symphony with Izler Solmon conducting.

Concluding the series, the Julliard String Quartet performed three masterpieces of chamber music.

Banquets Brighten Home-coming and Spring Fest

Stan Midgley—lecturer for our home-coming L-M.

An atmosphere of provincial New England welcomed alumni and guests to the annual home-coming activities, which began with a Thanksgiving worship service. The traditional Thanksgiving meal in the dining hall followed. Decorations of corn shocks, pumpkins and signs of harvest along with a scene of a quaint New England church surrounded by evergreens helped enliven the dining hall.

"An Anthology of Robert Frost" presented the home-coming theme in an after dinner program. In the evening, the combined choruses performed.

In May, spring lambs, violets and wooden bridges set the atmosphere as guests went "through the fields" for a festive evening and walked under pink lamplight to a programmatic desert—Mozart's one-act opera, Bastien et Bastienne, in a country setting surrounded by a gilded picture frame of the Dresden era. The opera tells of the love story of Bastien, a young swain, his pretty shepherdess, and their magician friend. Bastienne fears she has lost her love and pleads for Colas to help her. Bastien also asks Colas's advice in his plight. Colas's magic works and the couple find their love again.

A-V's Enact Conflict

On December 17, the A-V Literary Societies presented "Cry, the Beloved Country." The dominant theme of the verse drama contrasted fear and love, ignorance and understanding, despair and hope. These conflicts culminated in the murder of a white man. The assailant, sentenced to hang for his crime, was a seeming sacrifice for the cause of better understanding between the races in South Africa.

The meaning of the play extended beyond the black and white of race relations to the black and white of all human relations. The solution for difficulty, therefore, in the specific situation presented by the play was to be applied to all conflicting circumstances arising from fear, ignorance and despair in human relations.

Merle Gisel played the lead role, Reverend Kumalo. David Plaut and George Bechtel acted other major parts. Rachel Leatherman directed. Pictures by Richard Graber.

A-A's Produce "Our Town"

Stagehands with light and sound effects.

Grover's Corners, N.H., at the beginning of the twentieth century lived in the "mind of God" and in the minds of the A-A's in their March presentation of Thornton Wilder's three-act play.

Rambling freely about the stage, hands in pockets, the stage manager, Jim Fricke, described Grover's Corners and the people who live there. Both the town and the people are quite ordinary. Grover's Corners has its town hall, post office, jail and several churches, including the Baptist Church "down in the holla by the river."

The action of the play centers around the courtship and marriage of George Gibbs, Gordon Zook, and Emily Webb, Jean Bachman. The action takes place in three parts: the daily life, love and marriage, and "we all know that something is eternal. And it ain't houses and it ain't names, and it ain't earth, and it ain't even the stars—everybody knows in their bones that something is eternal, and that something has to do with human beings." Ervin Beck, Jr., directed the production.

"This was not the Music Man, but we did the best we can.
We are glad that Goshen is not an all boys' institute.
We hope you can reorganize what we have tried to satirize.
Without you, girls, school would be just a boring misery.
If our jesting was arresting and our joking thought-provoking,
And our acting sometimes made you smile, then our program has been worth while.
So we praise you for your virtues, for your good looks and your date books.
And we'd like to say before we go that we hope that you enjoyed our show."

Dorm Productions Picture

On November 7, female residents of Kulp Hall, Westlawn and High Park opened their rooms for inspection. Fellows found them to be sparkling clean and in order, except for a few door tops.

At 9 p.m. the fellows took their turn in entertaining the girls. Arlen Miller directed the performance of the scrambled facsimiles of last year's L-M's which appeared on printed programs. The sufficiently silly but serious program concluded with the St. Maple Leaf Glee Club and an original song by Junior Beck.

March 13 brought the event that girls anticipate and men dread all year—Men's Open House. Inspection proved that guys are terrific house cleaners at least once a year.

Later Loretta Yoder directed a program which carried the audience "Around the World in 80 Days." A beautiful Japanese tea ceremony, Greek folk songs, a Parisienne fashion show and an exciting bullfight were parts of this gala event. Excerpts from Hansel and Gretel told of Germany; Heidi, of Switzerland and The Diary of Anne Frank, of Holland.

Parties Feature Fun and Festivities

Students and faculty appearing as squaws and chiefs at Halloween.

All-school, class and impromptu parties throughout the year brightened G.C. week ends. At the first all-school gathering, the faculty men exhibited their skill at baseball and weather forecasting. The faculty children gave hula-hoop lessons and the faculty women provided an assortment of delicious homemade cakes for an indoor picnic. At Halloween everyone turned Indian and competed for costume prizes around tribal campfires. On December 12, the all-school Christmas party invited ingenuity and artistry in the fine art of tree decorating. Varied class parties and small group "get-togethers" for pizza, root beer floats, carry-in suppers and hoagies in the Westlawn kitchenette filled other evenings with fun.

1959 Adds Significance

Throughout the year, we watched the construction of both the seminary building and the new church—watched the seminary chapel's pointed roof stretch to the sky with its simple brick cross, watched the restful curved dome of the church receive its sparkling finish.

We listened to inspirational lectures and sermons, such as those given by Dean Carl Morgan of Eastern Theological Seminary in Philadelphia. We participated in candlelight prayer meetings.

And then the seniors concluded their college days with baccalaureate, commencement and class day. President Paul Mininger gave the baccalaureate sermon; Frank E. Gaebelein, headmaster of Stony Brook School, Long Island, delivered the commencement address. As the year came to a close, seniors recalled many of the more vivid classes, activities and personal experiences which make up four years of college life. And with those memories they proudly received their diplomas and started another chapter of their lives.

Significance to life.

Significance to alumni—another graduating class.

We are realizing life's significance...

Seniors, underclassmen, faculty, staff—we are the essence of G.C. Our development and maturity perpetuate G.C. And in turn we gain strength of purpose and realization of ultimate individual worth from our learning experiences on this college campus.

Graduates—Miller, Bowman, Beck, Lanver, Ingold.

116 Seniors Graduate

Senior officers: Darlene Mathis—Sec., Jim Nussbaum—Treas., Phyllis Lauver—Veep, Pat Belt—Historian, Don White—Pres.

Finally 116 Goshen College students achieved the coveted title of senior. We came back for the last time to the familiar class, study and work schedules.

Soon we seniors made hushed plans for the senior trip. Anyone near the faculty parking lot early Halloween morning might have thought they were seeing spooks and goblins. But it was just the juniors giving some very sleepy seniors a grand send off. After arriving at Detroit, we walked and walked through Ford Museum and Greenfield Village. Finally we sat down to watch the Iowa-Michigan football game at Ann Arbor.

Our final semester began after a cold week end at Brunk's Cabin. Some of us started stiff and sore from sledding and tobogganing.

Class meetings, parties and teas at Burkholder's helped fill those fast last days of student teaching, nursing affiliation at Indianapolis and study.

Junior-Senior banquet, Senior breakfast, final exams, Baccalaureate, Senior Day, rehearsals and the climax—graduation . . . remembering how far away it had once seemed, we paused to thank God for His guidance, strength and faithfulness.

Juniors Continue

Entering the second half of college career, juniors faced full schedules and time-consuming activities. The terms—practice teaching, affiliation, grade-point average, and upper-level courses—took on a new importance.

Although occupied with studies, juniors worked together on committees and participated in extracurricular activities. Were we ambitious? Early one morning juniors noisily bid "farewell" to Detroit-bound seniors. At the same time we gave an arousing "good morning" to the yet sleeping campus.

The winter social, centered around the Southern Plantation theme, provided a reacquaintance time for class members. The brisk evening, the envigorating games, the sodas, and potato chips—all sent the juniors back to their dorms exhausted.

It seemed as if the year had just begun when spring arrived. For juniors, spring is banquet time. Sitting by the seaside and reviewing the past events of the senior class seemed an appropriate and relaxing way to end another busy year.

Sophs Return

In September 1958, 180 sophomores returned to Goshen College more adjusted than the previous fall. After renewing friendships and reviewing summers, we began our curricular and extracurricular activity.

First semester passed quickly with a hayride, the approving of a constitution, and the soph chapel program. In March – sophomore tests strengthened our unity.

Frosh Begin

September 1958—200 freshmen eagerly, yet apprehensively, began their college careers. We met our counselors and roommates. We cleaned and arranged our rooms. We ate our first meal in the dining hall and had our first dorm meeting.

A barrage of tests, picnics, socials, appointments and waiting in line added to the confusion of our first week at GC.

Eventually we got settled—with the help of counselors and Frosh Orientation discussion groups and Tuesday night lectures.

After electing officers to lead the class activities, we held our freshman banquet—A Roman Holiday.

Following this our parents traveled to Goshen to spend a week end with us—open house, vespers, a banquet and good-bys.

Soon we were speaking in contests and writing for The Record.

Fulfilling the Mission of GC

Paul Mininger, B.D., M.R.E., Ph.D.
President
Professor of Christian Education

"The mission of Goshen College today must be derived from the interaction of three great ideals: the purpose of the church, the tradition of the liberal arts, and the concern for relevancy to the needs of our world," states President Mininger in his annual report. He is largely responsible for co-ordinating the fulfillment of this mission.

These ideals further interact as Dean Kreider continues to visit other colleges as a co-ordinator for the North Central Association. This organization serves other colleges and enriches our educational program. This year the Dean was appointed as a member of the advisory council of the Danforth Foundation. This council of eight members rates applications from across the United States for receiving the twelve or fourteen available Teacher Grants.

The fulfilling of Goshen's mission today depends partly on an understanding of the past. Dean Bender, an authority in historical studies, has spent considerable time this year contributing to and editing the fourth volume of The Mennonite Encyclopedia which is to be published in August 1959. This encyclopedia is the first reference work in English for history, faith and culture of 435 years of Anabaptism.

Harold S. Bender, M.A., Th.D.
Dean of the Biblical Seminary
Professor of Church History

Carl Kreider, Ph.D.

Reversed situations—summer session for faculty.

Profs Delve into Theology

"Goshen College believes that the responsibility for communication of religious ideas is the responsibility of the entire faculty, not only the special role of the Bible department." For this reason the entire faculty studied theological problems for three weeks in a workshop held just before school opened in September using a $30,000 grant from the Eli Lilly Co.

In preparation for the workshop, each faculty member read three theological works—for orientation, on philosophy of religion and on doctrinal subjects. The workshop program consisted of lectures and seminar studies. Five lecturers came from the GC Biblical Seminary. Four guest theologians lectured.

The faculty worked together on common problems in small seminar groups. Each of the seven groups worked on different subjects including: Christianity and the Scientific Method, The Christian's Vocation in a Technical Society, Christianity and Culture, Christianity and the Behavioral Sciences, The Christian's Redemptive Approach to Society, Christianity and the Fine Arts, and The Meaning of History.

Each seminar then reported its findings to the entire group. In addition to the lectures and seminars, a period each day was devoted to general Bible study.

Faculty Discusses

Thursday afternoon faculty discussions permit the enrichment of the educational program of Goshen College through sharing of research.

At the first three meetings the faculty discussed reports from different seminar divisions of the summer faculty workshop.

Atlee Beechy, Howard Charles and Roman Gingerich gave oral reports of doctoral theses.

Guest speakers included: Dr. Nathan Scott presenting, "The Human Situation in Modern Literature" and Dr. Harold Ehrensperger of Boston, "Religion in Drama."

Profs Amstutz, Miller, Hershberger, Zimmerman and Miss Shaum at faculty tea.

"COME ON, LET'S GO!"

Maybe we don't feel like competing in a horse race, but we dare not ignore his challenge.

One of the major responsibilities of each generation is that of preparing youth to fill its place.

Each year there are more children entering school. We never seem to quite "catch up" in additional buildings and teachers.

Our church sponsored schools and colleges which have accepted the challenge of helping youth find Christian answers to their educational, spiritual and social needs, are facing a major decision. They are asking their sponsoring organizations, "Shall we accept the challenge of the increased demand for Christian education, or shall we abandon the race in favor of the endowed and tax supported secular institutions?"

We believe the church is ready to share this experience with her youth, rather than asking them to ride alone.

MENNO TRAVEL SERVICE representative, Mrs. Fricke, suggests a possible itinerary for Char Clymer on a trip through the U.S. The prospective trip by trailer takes on new meaning at PAUL'S MOBILE HOME SALES, where Jim Clymer lends a man's advice to home selection. The Clymers' financing is quickly arranged by Mr. Weddell at the FIRST NATIONAL BANK of Goshen. Then the investment is fully protected by comprehensive coverage written by insurance broker, GLEN G. BIXLER.

Mr. Hostetler easily provides "personalization" for a mobile home with his wide pattern selection from HOSTETLER FLOOR COVERING. A painting purchased at HOME DECORATING, INC. should fill "that spot right over the dining table." And STIVER'S FURNITURE STORE has just the furniture to give the mobile home that "at home" feeling. A thorough checkup on the old buggy by Mr. Pletcher from PLETCHER SERVICE puts the Chevy in shape. Jim and Char, you're all set. HAPPY VACATION!
